

Telebanking designated accounts and payees form

OFFSHORE SAVINGS - NATIONWIDE INTERNATIONAL

Putting you in control with Telebanking

If you authorised the use of Telebanking when opening your account, you had the opportunity to designate a single account. You can use the attached form to designate additional accounts and cheque payees. Remember, our Telebanking service is free, secure and convenient, allowing you to operate your account(s) by telephone, fax, and when registered, by using our Internet Banking service.

How to designate additional accounts and payees

Before you can make any electronic or cheque payments using our Telebanking service, we ask that you pre-designate these in writing. This ensures that outbound payments can only be made to the pre-designated people and accounts that you have specified. We believe that combining this with the protection of your Telebanking password ensures that accessing your account(s) via our Telebanking service is doubly secure.

To designate additional accounts and payees, simply complete the form opposite, sign it and return it to:

Nationwide International Ltd, PO Box 217, 5-11 St Georges Street, Douglas, Isle of Man, British Isles, IM99 1RN

Please do not fax the form as designated accounts and payees can only be set up on receipt of a signed original. You can designate as many accounts and payees as you wish. Additional forms are available upon request, or you can download one from our website at nationwideinternational.com.

With our Telebanking service you can:

- make withdrawals to designated bank/building society accounts and cheque payees
- have a cheque withdrawal sent to the registered address of the first named account holder
- pay money in using our Direct Deposit service (Sterling accounts only)
- check your balance and transaction history
- change your account type
- amend your interest payment instructions
- set notice on your account
- open a new account*
- change your Telebanking password
- make internal transfers in any currency.*
